VALUATION OF RAILROADS CONSTITUTIONALISTS CHICAGO STOCK EXCHANGE
DISCUSSED BY CANTLER FLETCHER FRIZZ AS HAS RESUMED OPERATIONS

Work in Progress Will Have Vital Effect on Government Ownership, He Says

Either the national valuation of railroads now in progress, under the direction of the Interstate Commerce commission will prove the first step toward government ownership or it will result in a cessation of the agitation for government ownership, is the opinion of Chairman of the Georgia state railroad commission, who has just returned from the annual convention of railroad commissioners held in Washington last week.

Chairman C. C. Hill was invited to Washington by Judge George Hillier, vice chairman of the Georgia commission, who is also a member of the commission's rate expert. The National Association of Railroad Commissioners indicated in its meeting that it is made to the full bench of the supreme court in Frank's behalf, it cannot be brought before Monday. It is possible that other justice will be appealed to individually and this action, if unfavorable, will be followed by an application to the full court Monday when it meets again. There is already a thread of hope for getting a writ of error.

Frank May Be Sentenced To Hang on December 18

White Solicitor Hugh M. Dorey declined to comment on the news from Washington of Justice Lenoir's refusal to grant a writ of error in the Frank case, but he said that the case will be brought into court by means of habeas corpus writ Friday or Saturday afternoon on behalf of the condemned remittitur from the supreme court is due in the superior court Tuesday, and any delay in the case will mean that Frank can move to have Frank resentenced.

Trading Begins Where It Was Left Off at Closing July 30

(By Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, Nov. 23.—The Chicago stock exchange opened today and trading was resumed where it stopped July 30, when, with other trading centers, the exchange closed because of the European war.

The Chicago exchange is the first of the broad official markets for securities throughout the world to resume operation.

Business began with the closing figures of July 30 as a basis for transactions. The first ten minutes a hundred shares of various stocks were exchanged hands. A representative group of securities was sold at a profit of 10 to 15 cents.

It is made to the full bench of the supreme court in Frank's behalf, it cannot be brought before Monday. It is possible that other justice will be appealed to individually and this action, if unfavorable, will be followed by an application to the full court Monday when it meets again. There is already a thread of hope for getting a writ of error.

Government Not Turned Over to Any Faction by U. S., but Carranza Forces Grasp Opportunity

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—American troops, after holding Vera Cruz since last April, were evacuating the city and the Mexican government is expected here next sunset will see the Mexican flag floating again over the ancient fortress of San Juan and the Mexican capital.

It seemed reasonable, that jealous Americans claim an even earlier origin for this anecdote. The Japanese who spoke of intrenching an army in the Rockies was scoffed at: "Yes—if the summer tourists in California don't take away your guns as souvenirs!" smiled at by his professional brethren, but now they have been observed by so many others that their existence is fully accepted. Some representations of the physical conditions of Mars have been presented this summer. These indicate that Mars does not contain large masses of land like our continents, but that her dry surface is broken up into multitudes of islands. This peculiar distribution of land forms a great contrast to the earth and is said to free the inhabitants of that planet from any of the irrigation problems to be solved on this earth.

The transit of Mercury which took place upon November 7 was a phenomenon which attracted wide attention from the amateur astronomers of the country. It had little practical value, although some computations were made from it which it is thought may be helpful in determining more exactly the true position of Mercury in the solar system. The observations of the transit of Mercury have also been taken advantage of by the Nautical Almanac office for the purpose of fixing upon whether rotation time of the earth on its axis.

Harvard-Yale Game Produced One Big Surprise, When Crimson Hung Up Record Score Against Blue—Latter Badly Outplayed—Dartmouth Upset Dope Against Syracuse

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—While there were no upsets Saturday on eastern grids, such as marked the preliminary games of the year, there were several surprises in the shape of starting-lineup scores.

The annual Harvard-Yale game was a surprise, the Yale team, an almost even-money proposition several days before the contest, went down to defeat by a score of 25 to 0.

In every department of play and generally, considering the teams as units, Yale was completely outplayed. While it is possible to single out individual players on the Harvard team, Yale was completely outplayed. Flag Tourney At Druid Hills

The golf committee at Druid Hills has announced a flag tournament for members for Thanksgiving day, next Thursday, with two prizes for the winners. The contest will begin in the morning, but entries may select either the morning or the afternoon for their play.

It will be played under the usual rules governing flag tournaments, with the club handicaps applying. Each player will be given a small flag at the start, and after reaching the "honey" strokes and his club handicap will stick the flag in the ground where the ball rests after the last stroke. The winners will be the two whose flags are planted in advance of the other.

Entrance fee of 50 cents will be charged and a large entry list is expected. No flag will be given out after 1:30 p. m. on the day of the tournament.

Harvard Loses Eight Veterans

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 23.—Coach Laughlin will lose nearly three-quarters of his team when Harvard's veterans leave Saturday. Only three of the eleven who started the game will return to college. Fifteen of the twenty-five players who won letters will be lost to the team.

The crack kicking and running half-back, Mahan, is the probable choice for captain to succeed Bradley. Eason, who was impressed from the crew squad to fill left tackle, and who was the center late in the season, are the other players remaining on the Harvard team.

Of last year's eleven, Gilman and Cowan, both linemen, who have been prevented from facing the team, are playing recently, and Roney, who limped out of the field for a moment Saturday, are expected to be available.

BALLADE OF THE MASTER MOUNDMAN.
"Wagner, LaJolie and Donlin—master swatmen of the past—'all battle below 250 this season for the first time in their careers."—
News report.

Sooner or later down the way
The chapter comes that all must know.
Whatever be the game they play,
However crimsen be their blow.
Where all men bear this final call:
They crown the field, they rule the show.
But Doc Time pitches shut-out ball.

"They had no weakness," you will say;
They hit them all—the high and low;
Their hitting eyes held every foe;
Against the onslaughts of the foe;
No alabam fooled them with his throw.
Nor stopped them from a year haul.
They hit them all—raw blow by blow—
But Doc Time pitches shut-out ball.

Mike, Larry, Hans—across the fray
You three have watched them come and go;
You've seen the play, the final deed,
Where each must die as each might owe.
Now, where the far tides ebb and flow,
At last you watch the shadows fall.
You still can hit? 'Twill grant it so—
But Doc Time pitches shut-out ball.

They had no weakness, yet they go;
No speed could drive them to the wall.
No claimer ever lost a game to him,
But Doc Time pitches shut-out ball.

But while the Old Doc was in the act of beckoning Eddie Plank, Connie Mack rose to his feet and said:
"I am old Doc Time who is going strong and leisurely and untroubled about the job of arranging the final deed of the European scrummage. He has a million years to work in, and a thousand years from now the Big War will be just a forgotten war to him, blurred with the activities of Reagan and Hannibal."

The fact that a gentleman named Rice is riding in the six-day race doesn't interest us one particle of one whit. But what we'd like to know is this: Who the deuce is he yoked up with?

Here's another important detail that has often made us ponder perceptibly: At these big football games why doesn't some one organize a cheering section to cheer for the cheer leaders of the cheering section already organized? They do more work than any four men on the field and yet are not even mentioned in the summary beneath the score.

A NEEDED BOOM.
One boom baseball needs, in so far as the older organization is concerned, is to put Chicago back where it belongs in a baseball way.
In the old days—and not so old at that—the Cook county citadel was one of the main ramparts of the game. At which point fadism at large was handed down in succession to a new generation of age fanatic across the border and away from the park. Only an abiding love for baseball held as many as stuck within the portals.

Chicago, in the National league, needs a new deal—a big shift in every way from the arrangement of the last three or four years—and whether it be through Wegman or some one else, it is properly due to the National league to slip one of baseball's main centers a new deal—and a fair one.

With Chicago encouraged to renew its enthusiasm, with Boston established under a winning and popular regime, and with New York's surfeit of pennants ended, 1915 might be made into quite a year—as years go.

EXPLAINING A WAY.
L. F. No, we haven't been lately into any argument between players and magnates of late for the simple reason that in most cases where an argument has arisen we have felt that both were wrong in their methods, and in most cases indefensibly wrong. Both have made enough mistakes to lat an average lifetime; and the results have been sufficient to show that it is time both were changing the general direction of their ways.

STATE LEGISLATION.
In Tennessee and Georgia they voted on bonds and voted in boxing.
In California they voted out boxing and voted in behalf of the third.

Which shows the terrific consistency of the average voter once he is given a chance.

Motorcyclists Flock To Big Savannah Race
The city of Savannah is slated to stage the premier motor racing event of the season on Thursday, giving day the Chatham citadel will put on a 300-mile road race for motorcyclists. This race will be run over the best road in the state, the Grand Prix and Vanderbilt cup races for automobiles, and is one of the largest motorcycle events in the country. Prizes aggregating almost $1,000 have been hung up by the Savannah Motorcycle club, under whose auspices the race will be staged, and in addition to these prizes, motorcycle accessory manufacturers have added other prizes.

This will be the first renewal of the big race which was inaugurated last year. The race will carry an added interest to local motor enthusiasts because of the fact that at least two Atlanta boys will have mounts in the race. Harry Glenn and Ed Wilcox, both mounted on Indian machines, have entered, and both are expected to prove strong contenders for first honors. Glenn has ridden in hard luck in several big races, when, through no fault of his own, he has been troubled by his machine put him out of the running. He has been looking to be a sure winner. His friends believe that he can shake the jinx this time, and expect to see him come through with flying colors. Wilcox is riding his second big race, having had a contender last year, when engine trouble put him out.

In addition to these two boys there are several other southern riders who are considered likely contenders for first honors. Gray Sloop, the sensation from the Tar Heel state, will have a Harley-Davidson mount in the race. Sloop won the big race at the time of the Palm Beach road race and did great work on the endurance run between Atlanta and Birmingham several months since. L. Yerkes, of Jacksonville, is another southern entry who will give the race a big boost. His friends are offering 2 to 1 that he will finish in the money.

Great Game on When Jackets Meet Clemson

Scores of Games to Date Would Indicate That Locals Should Win, but an Upset Is Likely—Clemson Out for Revenge for Defeat of Last Season

One more big football game remains on the regular schedule for Atlanta fans before the final gridiron treat of the season, when Auburn meets the Carlisle Indians here on December 5. This game will be played by Tech and Clemson on Thursday of the week, closing day for football in Dixie every year.

There is a well-defined sentiment among local fans that when the Tigers and Jackets come together on Grand field a scrap such as few have been privileged to see will result. Efforts to figure out the chances of the two eleven are futile, and, furthermore, the best calculations on preceding games have fallen so far short of the final results that doting the game in advance is high-risk business. Apparently the Jackets should win by one or two touchdowns.

And thereby hangs the tale. Last year Clemson came down with visions of slaying the Jackets. Previous scores indicated that the two teams were about evenly matched. But the final results went to prove that the hope was all wrong. The Jackets' conquest home winners as yet a wide margin. Clemson never got going. Tech had played Georgia for a very close second only a year before, and Georgia had in turn defeated Tech.

In the Georgia game the Tigers displayed unmistakable ability to rush the ball both on line plunging and on end and tackle plays. But they showed none of this ability against Tech. It was the consensus of opinion that the Carolina eleven had held the Jackets too cheaply.

This year it is hard to imagine how the team will let such a spirit infect itself in the minds of the players. Those who know the Clemson instructor takes football as seriously as any man connected with the game. No doubt the game last year was one of the most humiliating defeats the Carolina Williams' team ever suffered, and he will be out for revenge this year. Williams' team never turned out at Virginia, despite the Jackets' last year.

This season he has in Webb and James two backfield men who are among the best in the south at advancing the ball. The team may also be expected to employ frequent use of the forward pass and open game generally. Here is a diversified attack anticipated from the Tigers.

The Jackets, too, should be ready for their last game of the season when the two teams meet.

Concerning the spirit of the Red and Black warriors in their last two games, it may be said that their "combustion" was one of the most remarkable features of a great football season in Dixie. Such a spirit might have reasonably been expected of a team of veterans, who for some reason or other had gotten away to a bad start. But the Georgia team is not composed of veterans. On the other hand, with a very few exceptions, it is made up of reserves from last year's squad.

Add to the fact that most of the material was comparatively inexperienced, the further consideration that the team was tackling one of the most rugged schedules ever mapped out for any eleven, and the brilliance of their achievement may be properly appreciated. No less than six hard games were included in the list, and they were crowded along, week after week, with never a break for a bit of rest. There is always a tendency among new green men to lose confidence in themselves and their associates after they have been beaten in a few successive fights. But the Georgians proved an exception. Taking four beatings in a row, they came back stronger than ever for their next match, and then repeated a week later by marshalling even greater courage and grit in their final fight. The work in the Tech and Auburn games is a glowing tribute to their pluck.
